

Longevity:

According to Dr. Jeff Marrongelle and Dr. Davis from the Conference Call on Longevity:

1. Longevity is indispensable one of the broadest and most physiological of all the formulas. It has global effect on any type of physical condition.
2. Energy is the missing link in many cases to increasing the ability of individual organism to adapt to the stress it is under – sick people are almost always very low on energy.
3. In order for the whole system to really work it has to have an ample supply of systemic energy on the cellular and even sub cellular level.
4. Longevity influences and strengthens whatever organ or system is most chaotic and disorganized. Wherever there is sickness the body's normal adaptation responses have been overwhelmed. This results in disorganization throughout the system.
5. Longevity works in that space of cellular metabolism and respiration and inner cellular function providing energy to that which creates our life force and that is one cell at a time. So whether it is an organ or tissue or organ system they all need to have the capability to rejuvenate, regenerate and create healthy normal vibrant cells. That is what Longevity is about.
6. It is my #1 tool and goes out the door with almost every new patient as a foundation to make everything else work better. It provides an ample supply of energy and restoration of function to whatever tissue happens to be under the most duress. The healing response takes time – but there are physiologically observable changes using HRV and EDS we see tremendous increase in stability. It takes quite a bit of energy to change an autonomic response on the HRV – and interstitial fluid conductivity and it needs to be delivered across the entire system and yet that is what we are seeing.
7. Allows the healthy cells to exist and function in their normal state at a higher level of energy - raising the metabolic energy rate
8. Boosts immune response
9. Topical applications to sun spots, skin tags

Ingredients: Energies of Chlorophyll (which has a significant impact on the blood and is of similar composition. It affects the fatty acids which compose the cell walls, has a powerful impact on the endocrine and hormone system), telomerase, silicon (global semi-conductor), stem cells programmed to stimulate stem cells of the body to go wherever they are needed.

In our chronic degenerative cases we have observed an ongoing increase in repair. The body has its own unique hierarchy for repair and rejuvenation. Longevity has been rather dramatic in creating some movement in the short run. Looking at what parameters moved the most and how the body heals and repairs and in what order, I would say the thin bowel is the key to life! The skin and gut are the first to derive the biggest benefit. The changes I see most quickly are in the stomach, GI, and the skin. The most highly prolific tissues show an early positive response to this type of stimulation. These tissues turn over faster – if they have the correct information they are going to react faster and heal and repair more quickly.

I think the longer Longevity is used the more value it provides. With some disorders it can take months and even years to rejuvenate some tissues.

Dr. Davis said he has observed a significant shift in allergic responses. At first there is an increase in symptoms then normalization over time. In a couple of days he sees a shift in symptomology – over 5-7 days a significant reduction in symptoms. It takes a couple of weeks to settle down.

Topical Applications:

Topically applied Longevity produces changes over a period of a couple of weeks in various types of skin lesions, age spots, sun spots, skin tags, etc. Just add to the night-time routine - use a Q-tip, dot it on and let it air dry.

We have not seen a single adverse event to date.

The Aloe base is highly beneficial to the skin and mucous tissues.
